FIREMEN MARK THEIR WEEK

The scene may look like a major fire, but the picture was actually taken during the Kelowna Fire Brigade's weekly training session at the seaplane base. Throwing up a protective wall of water in front of these volunteer firemen is an "exposure nozzle", one of many fire fighting devices the brigade can bring into instant use around the city. The nozzle is used to protect an intact building from one that is on fire, or to allow firemen to move close to a blaze. The brigade holds its sessions each Monday night, under the direction of training officer Harry Locke. For National Fire

Prevention Week, three companies of fire fighters from the brigade demonstrated their skills at different locations Monday night. (Courier Photo)

GIFT FROM DEAD SAVES LIVING

TORONTO (CP) — Temporary skin grafts from corpses can work miracles overnight for patients suffering severe burns, says Dr. George Collettine, assistant professor of surgery at the Marquette School of Medicine, Milwaukee.

Speaking Monday to the sixth annual meeting of the Ontario College of Family Physicians, Dr. Collettine said a graft applied to a dying child, with a high temperature and bleeding ulcers, will cause almost instant improvement.

"He'll sit up and want to eat the next morning."

Why the graft makes this dramatic difference was not known but it seems enough to help the body lockout bacteria invasion and fight infection.

Astronauts Test Skills

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — The Apollo 7 astronauts sharpened their flying skills in a spacecraft simulator today as rocket, spaceship and all other elements of the mission were pronounced in excellent shape for Friday's launching of the first three-man space crew by the United States.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., the command pilot making his third trip into space, air force Maj. Donn F. Eisele and civilian Walter Cunningham climbed into the simulator in mid-morning and planned to spend several hours there. In the afternoon they were to attend a countdown review.

Meanwhile, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced that Wednesday it will roll to another launch pad the Saturn V rocket that is to boost the Apollo 8 three-man crew in December.

If Apollo 7 is successful, Apollo 8 may attempt to orbit the moon in a vital rehearsal for a manned lunar landing in 1969.

Czechs Ready To Pay Price

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak Communist party's ruling presidium met today to ratify commitments made to the Soviet Union by party chief Alexander Dubcek last week as the price for withdrawal of part of the 600,000 occupation troops.

Dubcek was heading as he arrived to cheers and applause from about 100 men and women lined up outside party headquarters. Perhaps mindful of warnings against a personality cult, he did not accept bouquets or sign autographs as he has done at previous appearances.

Viet Cong Plans 'Something Big'

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States military officers are weighing intelligence that indicates the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese will attempt "something big" in the way of a new offensive before the end of the year.

Captured officers have told interrogators in Vietnam they think their leaders in Hanoi would like to make a big splash in U.S. headlines about the time of the Nov. 3 election.

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Heart transplant patient Floyd Pratt, 46, died Monday night at Parkland Hospital.

He underwent surgery last Wednesday.

Alderman Hands Out Warning: Plant's Expansion 'Vital'

A strong warning has been sounded regarding the city's proposed $2,235,000 improvement program for the sewage system.

Ald. D. A. Chapman said if stages are not proceeded with Kelowna could "be brought to a standstill."

He said delaying expansion of the sewage collection system and increasing the treatment plant capacity might force the city council into halting all further apartment construction and new sewage connections.

He indicated the tertiary treatment aspect of the plan might not be essential, but expanding sewage collection and the plant are vital.

The comments were made Monday night as the council gave the first two readings of a bylaw authorizing the borrowing of $2,235,000 for the project.

Mayor R. F. Parkinson said first two readings of a bylaw receives four readings. Monday night didn't mean the project could start immediately.

City clerk James Hudson said after the bylaw gets its initial two readings it must go to Victoria for approval, come back for third reading, go to Victoria again, then come back for fourth reading. He said this could take until mid-December. Add to this the mandatory 30-day quashing period and the city probably couldn't get started until early next year.

Which leaves plenty of time for more discussion of the entire program and examination of alternatives, which the council ensures will be checked.

NOT SO BAD

Mayor Parkinson said first two readings could have been given last week, but the city felt the bylaw should be delayed to allow the public more time for examining all aspects of the proposals.

"We are not rushing with something which can't be undone if necessary," he told the council.

He said figures would soon be available from city comptroller D. B. Herbert, to show people details of proposed sewage cost increases in both old and new sections of the city.

"This isn't as bad as it first appeared," he said.

"Mr. Herbert will come up with clear figures to show why the project is necessary and there will be further studies of possible land disposal of treated sewage."

Changes Can Be Made Later

"We can change the bylaw and plans later, but we should take advantage of federal money," which will run out in March, 1970.

Ald. Thomas Angus, the alderman in charge of public works, emphasized the city's desire to utilize federal financial assistance and said the city will examine all aspects of municipal sewage treatment plant into Okanagan Lake, or into the surrounding hills, which he has repeatedly said would be much more costly.

Mayor Parkinson said by far the greatest expense would be extension of the sewage collection system and expanding the treatment plant, "costs which must be shared by all homeowners, to increase the plant which is outdated and over-used."

Ald. Angus said the federal grant, $305,000, would almost cover the cost of tertiary treatment at the plant, the phase of treatment designed to eliminate much of the nutrients which cause pollution problems.

Ald. Chapman, in addition to sounding his warning about a possible stop of city growth, said again the city rushed its public meeting. The meeting, to publicize the proposals and answer questions, was called only two days after the plans were first announced.

He suggested a second public meeting, saying "we owe the public the opportunity of a second meeting."

Ald. Chapman said the city was not rushing now, "just getting on with expanding the sewage collection system and expanding the treatment plant to take care of the city as it's growing."

Commenting on pending further examination of the land disposal possibility, Ald. Chapman said "if we find the land method looks better we could have a money bylaw."

City engineer E. F. Lawrence said he and Mr. Herbert were available any time to speak to any organization or discuss with them the whole project.

The city hopes to start work this year, with completion in 1970.

City officials will explain the proposed expenditure of $2,235,000.

Crew Of Pueblo Confess 'Crimes'

HONG KONG (Reuters) — The 82-man crew of the United States intelligence ship Pueblo have submitted a petition to their North Korean captors confessing "their crimes" and offering apologies, the North Korean news agency said today.

The ship was captured in January.

000 for improvements to the city's sewerage system, to the executive members of the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce.

City engineer E. F. Lawrence, city comptroller Doug Herbert and Ald. Thomas Angus will attend a dinner meeting Oct. 15 at 6 p.m. in the Kelowna Aquatic building.

The chamber executive will be given an opportunity to ask questions after the system has been explained.

WILLIAM WILLIS ... says farewell

Sea Claimed Yachtsman, 75

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Lone American navigator William Willis, 75, drifting alone on his storm-battered yacht Little One, out of food and with his sextant gone, spent his last hours trying to repair his broken mast, a Russian newspaper says.

As he worked, a new storm rose, and a wave washed him overboard into the North Atlantic, 540 miles west of Ireland.

Willis's last hours are reconstructed by the Soviet newspaper Voeny Transport, which based its conclusions on possessions the lone navigator left on his yacht.

Little One was sighted and picked up by a Soviet trawler Sept. 20. It was later found that Willis left New York on a solo crossing of the Atlantic.

CUPE 'Met Obstruction' On Regional Agreement

The Canadian Union of Public Employees in Kelowna claims that "it was sincere" in trying to arrive at a regional agreement with the employers, but "met too many obstructions."

The negotiating committee of the Kelowna branch of the union, has issued a statement to this effect, and rebuts the Okanagan Mainline Municipal Association statement made public Oct. 3.

The union says this latter statement was aimed at gaining maximum press coverage but it did not settle the Vernon strike, nor would it bring the Kelowna local back to the bargaining table.

In part the statement said, "The fact remains that CUPE was compelled to withdraw from regional bargaining after 10 months of frustration and failure to reach agreement. We were sincere in trying to arrive at a regional agreement with our employers but we met too many obstructions."

"Negotiations on a regional basis were resumed in September, after a conciliation board report was rejected by the municipal employees of all 13 municipalities. In order to expedite negotiations, and in order to obtain a settlement without a strike, the union side proposed that the municipal side should agree to no cuts in existing conditions and benefits.

"The union coupled this with an offer to make all other items negotiable with no preconditions, and also offered to recommend postponing the strike in Vernon. This was a responsible action by a responsible trade union—but the municipal side said No. Subsequent statements from their side make it clear they were planning to impose cuts in working conditions and benefits."

The problem in these negotiations was best exemplified by the Vernon situation, the union said. Early in September, prior to the strike, Mayor William Halina told a union delegation that it was never the intention of the Vernon council to impose any cuts in conditions and benefits. Later, after the strike began, R. S. S. Wilson, spokesman for the municipal side, bluntly stated that Mayor Halina had made no such statement.

"How are we, on the union side, to know who speaks for the people of Vernon," asked the Kelowna local.

"The OMMA statement crudely suggests that the union is opposed to free collective bargaining because we don't want to give up established conditions of work and benefits. This seems to be a case of the devil quoting the scripture for his own purpose."

"Free collective bargaining means, among other things, that we are free to say no to such propositions and free to go out on strike to back up our position. Without such freedom, our union would be no better than a company union," said the statement.

Wilson Heads For Gibraltar To Meet Rhodesia's Smith

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Wilson will fly to Gibraltar today to meet with Rhodesian leader Ian Smith Wednesday in their first summit in two years.

Wilson announced his flight plan after a cabinet meeting in which he sought and quickly obtained cabinet approval of his new venture.

It will be the first meeting between Wilson and Smith since their unsuccessful bid for a settlement on the British warship Tiger in December, 1966.

The announcement said the talks are aimed at discovering whether it would be possible to arrive at a settlement of the Rhodesian problem acceptable to both sides.

Informants who released word of the meeting prior to the official announcement said the climate may be conducive to a settlement of the crisis that has tended to corrode the Commonwealth and split its members along racial lines.

Wilson will be accompanied by Commonwealth Secretary George Thomson and Attorney General Edwin Jones.

Smith will be accompanied by Justice Minister Desmond Lardner Burke and External Affairs Minister John Howman.

The talks will be held aboard the British cruiser Fearless, in Gibraltar harbor.

Crowd Of More Than 20,000 Waits In Vain For Virgin Mary

ST. BRUNO, Que. (CP) — A crowd estimated at more than 20,000 waited in vain Monday night for a predicted appearance of the Virgin Mary in this town about 12 miles east of Montreal.

Men, women, children, persons in wheelchairs, and others on crutches awaited in rain and mud for the Virgin who was to appear sometime between 7:00 and 9:00 p.m.

Most of the huge crowd dispersed some time after the scheduled vision failed to appear but hundreds stayed on through the night. Hotels and motels in the town were filled to capacity as persons came from points as far away as California.

Bennett Accuses Nicholson Of Overstepping His Duties

VICTORIA (CP) — Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia Monday accused Lieutenant-Governor John Nicholson of overstepping the boundaries of his role during a speech Sunday in Vancouver.

Mr. Nicholson, however, said he did nothing wrong and did not anticipate any furor following his speech.

At issue were his remarks during opening ceremonies of the B.C. School Trustees Association annual convention when he preceded Education Minister Donald Bracken among dignitaries extending welcomes.

Mr. Nicholson, a former federal cabinet minister, said he agreed with a number of resolutions being presented to the convention and singled out two which he said should be sympathetically received by Mr. Nicholson and the Cabinet.

He said a resolution that penalizes clauses and incentive bonuses in school board construction contracts should be allowed by the government in a change of policy—as a "very practical" help in view of serious classroom shortages in B.C.

Violence Flares In Ulster Again

LONDON (AP) — Steel-helmeted riot police guarded strategic areas of Londonderry today after three homemade gasoline bombs exploded in a fresh outburst of nationalist violence gripping Northern Ireland's second largest city.

Prime Minister Terence O'Neill summoned his cabinet in Belfast, the capital, to consider measures tightening security.

The bombs were hurled at two police wagons crashing through a barricade of oil drums and timber that blocked a main approach to the city walls Monday night. The bombs missed.

It was the third successive night of clashes between police and nationalists denouncing "discrimination" against the country's Roman Catholic minority. Nearly 100 persons have been injured.

Police armed with clubs and shields moved in to disperse scores of stone-throwing teenagers taunting them with shouts of "Nazis."

At least 300 police were left guarding key points around Londonderry's nationalist districts. They were advised to brace themselves for more trouble.

Bush Pilot Loses An Arm But Flies Plane To Safety

PORT ARTHUR (CP) — With his right arm slashed off four inches from the shoulder, Brian Steed flew his plane 15 miles for help Saturday to write another chapter in the saga of Canadian bush pilots.

After spending a restless night in hospital here, the pilot of the Austin Airways of Toronto was listed in satisfactory condition today.

The story came to light Monday after his flight from Green Lake, 60 miles north of here, to the Austin base at Lake Shebandowan.

Mr. Steed's ordeal started moments after he landed his single-engine Beaver aircraft on Green Lake in the rugged bush of northwestern Ontario to deliver equipment for International Nickel Company of Canada.

SLIPS INTO PROP

He stepped onto the pontoon and slipped into the still-whirling propeller.

Alone at the time, Mr. Steed was knocked into the water by the impact and the combination of shock and cold water revived him.

Officials of Austin Airways, who leased the aircraft and the pilot to International Nickel Co., said Mr. Steed, 28, managed to crawl back into the cabin of the aircraft where he fashioned a head and by pulling his head back was able to apply pressure to the tourniquet and stem the bleeding.

With this makeshift tourniquet, Mr. Steed managed to take off from Green Lake, fly the 15 miles to Lake Shebandowan and make a good landing.

British Reds 'Not Violent'

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain's Communist party said today it hopes to achieve power without an armed struggle.

A booklet setting out the party's latest program says the present social system is failing and must be replaced by a socialist one, it adds.

"The Communist party has a vital part to play but does not seek an exclusive position of leadership. We believe socialism can be achieved in Britain, not without prolonged and serious effort but by peaceful means and without armed struggle and this is our aim."

A party spokesman said the reference to leadership implied a possible alliance with left-wing groups in the labor party, trade unions and other groups.

"It's for you dear... A Hugh Mefner!"

Arrow Dam, five miles upstream from Castlegar, on the Columbia River, will be declared operational Thursday, nearly six months ahead of schedule, the British Columbia Hydro and Power authority said today. Hydro co-chairman Dr. Hugh Keenleyside said in Vancouver early completion of the 170-foot-high earth and concrete structure will result in early payment by the United States of $56,000,000 for flood control benefits.

Maj. William Jones of Wellandport, Ont., received one of Yugoslavia's highest decorations Monday in Ottawa before making a return visit to the country where he operated with partisans fighting against the Nazi occupation. A 73-year-old veteran of both world wars, the retired major headed the first Allied military mission into Yugoslavia during the Second World War. He moved into the country while it was still under occupation by Nazi troops.

Mrs. Arthur Kidd, 47, was found not guilty in Toronto because of insanity Monday of the murder of her 13-year-old son, David, in 1967. Kidd, 47, was charged with the murder of her son, Douglas, 12, and Joseph, 11, who were shot to death last February as they watched television in their home. A fourth child, Nancy, 10, died in hospital from a stomach wound.

There is no indication of a spring cabinet shuffle, a spokesman in Prime Minister Trudeau's office in Ottawa said Monday. He was commenting on a Canadian Press report that cabinet changes in the spring may see the departure of Solicitor-General George McRath, 60, and Works Minister Arthur Laine, 64, to make room for new faces. Mr. Laine described the report as "irresponsible speculation."

OLD COUNTRY SOCCER

TORONTO (CP) — Industrial continued to rise while all other major sections of the market declined in active mid-morning trading on the Toronto Stock Exchange today.

The industrial index rose .09 to 180.77. Golds declined 7.10 to 207.63, after climbing 7.11 to 208.41 Monday. Base metals dropped 20 to 113.48 and western oils 80 to 228.90.

Among industrials, Victoria and Grey Trust moved ahead 1 to 17. Wisener and Partners Co. Ltd., stockbrokers are to make an offer for an unnamed purchaser to buy 135,000 of the 390,000 outstanding shares of the company before the opening of trading on the exchange Wednesday. Price is $17.50 a share, conditional on 67,500 shares being tendered.

White Pass and Yukon rose 1 1/4 to 44 1/4. The company said Monday it would split its shares two-for-one. Home Oil A was up 1 to 28. The company said it has acquired a working interest on property within 100 miles of the Alaska oil discovery made by Atlantic Richfield Oil Co. recently.

Canadian Gridoll rose 1/4 to 14 1/4 among western oils. Canadian Superior was up 1/2 to 57 1/2 while Hudson Bay Oil and Gas fell 1/2 to 38 1/2.

There were 1,008,000 shares traded, compared with 926,000 at the same time Monday.

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons standing committee on external affairs and national defence was to meet this morning to begin deliberations on the Nigerian civil war.

The decision to convene the committee came as the first major result of a dramatic fact-finding trip to Biafra last week by David MacDonald (PC—Egmont) and Andrew Brewin (NDP—Toronto Greenwood).

Opposition Leader Robert L. Stanfield opened Monday's Commons sitting by moving an emergency resolution to have the standing committee meet not later than 11 a.m. today to hear evidence on:

—A report by a team of international observers, including Maj.-Gen. Q. A. Milroy of Canada, in Nigeria to study federal conduct of the war. The team said last week there was no evidence of genocide.

—The reported famine conditions in that country. Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Brewin urged fast action by Canada to prevent millions of Biafrans from starving.

—A report from Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Brewin "on the conditions of the civilian population in Nigeria."

Mr. Stanfield said he would be disappointed if the committee failed to report back to the House on the issue within a week.

However, it was unlikely the committee would do much today. Its first task was to assemble, elect a chairman and vice-chairman, choose an executive committee, then set an agenda.

Both Mr. MacDonald and Mr. Brewin left early today for New

Budget In A Few Weeks

Replying to another question, Finance Minister Edgar Benson said he will bring down his 1968-69 budget next week or the week after.

In legislative business, the House:

—Completed committee study of an act authorizing the CNR to build a 60-mile rail line to the Pan American Petroleum Corp. and Hudson's Bay Gas and Oil Co. Ltd. sulphur recovery plants in northwestern Alberta. The act now requires third reading, which may be given today, and Senate passage to become law. The CNR hopes to begin building the $12,000,000 line once the act is passed by Parliament.

—Gave first reading to amendments to the Judges Act that would add 11 new $28,000-a-year men to Quebec's 74-member superior court and three $19,000-a-year judges to the county and district courts of Ontario, which now has 86 judges. The additional Quebec judges were needed to hear divorce cases, under Quebec rather than federal court jurisdiction since last July. The new Ontario judges were needed to handle the normal increase in litigation in the province.

—Approved in principle amendments to the Farm Improvement Loans Act. The amendments remove the old five-per-cent interest ceiling on government-guaranteed loans.

Sheraton Plans
For Toronto

BOSTON (CP-AP) — The Sheraton Corp. of America Monday night announced plans to build a 37-story, 1,200-room convention hotel with surrounding shopping concourse and two theatres as part of Toronto's civic centre.

No details were given. Sheraton, a subsidiary of International Telephone and Telegraph Corp., also reported the sale of Toronto's Ford Hotel to Wellington Associates of New York. The amount of the transaction was not disclosed.

Seventeen other hotels and motor inns in the United States were sold to Wellington, Sheraton said in a statement.

Sheraton also said it plans new resort projects for Florida and Hawaii.

In the United States, construction of the Royal Biscayne, a beach club and hotel, is being planned on the recently purchased 38 1/2 acres of ocean-front property adjoining the Galen Beach Hotel in Key Biscayne, Fla.

In Hawaii, Sheraton is in second year of a $50,000,000 expansion program of its Waikiki Beach properties, which will include a new 1,800-room hotel and convention centre.

N. Vietnamese Battered And Arms Caches Seized

SAIGON (AP) — United States ground and air forces battled North Vietnamese troops along the northwestern approaches to Saigon and killed 147 of them in a two-day fight ending today, the U.S. command announced.

U.S. casualties were eight men killed and 13 wounded. Meanwhile, combined forces troops up and down the country continued to uncover thousands of tons of munitions, food and medical stockpiles apparently stashed away for future attacks.

The aim of the sweeps is to spoil Viet Cong offensives across South Vietnam. U.S. officers say that the seizure of more than 150 tons of war supplies in recent weeks has hurt the Viet Cong and may delay, if not abort, some of the planned attacks.

Military spokesmen said about 12 fresh stockpiles of war materials and food were turned up Monday from north of Saigon to the demilitarized zone, some of it buried in coffins.

The developments came as U.S. officers weighed intelligence reports indicating the Communist command may attempt "something big" in the way of a new offensive before the end of the year. Captured officers are reported to have told interrogators they think Hanoi would like to make headlines about the time of the Nov. 5 U.S. presidential election.

Death Sentence
For Congo Rebel

KINSHASA (AP) — Congolese rebel leader Perre Mulele was sentenced to death by a special military court today after a 15-hour trial.

Mulele, who had returned to the Congo Sept. 20 on a safe-conduct provision under amnesty laws, immediately appealed for clemency to President Joseph Mobutu.

The news of the verdict was announced by Kinshasa radio. Mulele, chief of the rebels in Kivu province, had spent four years in exile. A leftist, he had led one of the bloodiest uprisings of the Congo's eight years of independence.

He returned to the Congo Sept. 28 from the Congo Republic, the Congo's neighbor.

The court, composed of three superior officers of the Congolese army whose names were withheld, met behind closed doors at an undisclosed location. The trial began Monday afternoon.

Mulele was not assisted by a lawyer.

Radio Kinshasa said that the public had been barred from the proceedings to avoid incidents by people who had suffered from the actions of the pro-Patrice Lumumba rebels led by Mulele.

Weekly casualty figures released by the South Vietnamese command said 1,654 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops were killed during the seven-day period ending at midnight last Saturday night. While this figure is subject to readjustment, it was the lowest weekly toll reported in more than two months. It compared to 2,866 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese claimed killed the previous week and 3,380 two weeks ago.

At the same time, South Vietnamese casualties for last week were reported as 322 killed and 1,065 wounded. This contrasted with 316 government soldiers killed and 1,230 wounded the previous week.

President Nguyen Van Thieu met with Gen. Duong Van Minh today for the first time since the popular Big Minh returned from nearly four years in exile last Saturday.

Thieu invited Minh, who led the 1963 coup that overthrew the late president Ngo Dinh Diem, to return to serve as an adviser to the president and broaden the popular support of the government.

The two men met in Thieu's office at Independence Palace, where they chatted amiably. They would answer no questions.

Afterward, Thieu, Minh, and Gen. Tran Thien Khiem, the interior minister, had lunch. Khiem is a close friend of both Thieu and Big Minh and served as Thieu's emissary to Bangkok, Thailand, to invite Minh to return.

Discussing evidence given at the hearings, Mr. Hellyer said, there was no consensus about the solution to urban problems. "If the experience of the task force in the last few weeks is any guide, there are many contradictions and many points of view."

But the problem of finding or holding onto a house has been widely explored.

Mr. Hellyer was interrupting a two-day tour through southern and northern Ontario, which is part of his hearings on housing and urban affairs. The inquiry now is in its fourth week, after visits to Ottawa, Quebec City, Charlottetown, Toronto, and Windsor.

He said the purpose of the hearing was to translate its findings into federal legislation. "We will have a report by the new year, which means we can have new legislation ready before the 1969 summer construction season."

The report also is to set out long-range policy.

"Our cities right now are, for many, unhappy places. But they needn't be if we decide on the right policies and are prepared to execute them," Mr. Hellyer told the conference.

"Either we start now and move quickly to eliminate the obsolescent practices, streamline our government, and sharpen the instruments for making our cities, or what will be serious disbelief in this country can do."

But the problem of finding or holding onto a house has been widely explored.

Doctors Hear New Concepts

The dean of Canada's newest medical school brought some new concepts for educating doctors to Kelowna.

Dr. W. A. Cochran, who has been involved during the past year in setting up a faculty of medicine at the University of Calgary, told delegates to the B.C. Medical Association's annual convention here that schools must begin now to educate doctors to meet the needs of medicine after 1975.

More than 200 B.C. doctors have registered for the four-day convention and listened to Dr. Cochran at a luncheon at the Capri Hotel.

The general practitioner is vanishing, Dr. Cochran told the doctors, and must be replaced with specialists in family medicine. He said the U of C medical school is emphasizing specialization, and especially the specialist in family medicine. This doctor will have special knowledge of such fields as pediatrics, diagnostics and psychiatry.

An alternative is the team approach to family practice, he said. This would be a number of specialists working together and capable of coping with all problems arising in a family. United with new types of "doctoring" will be an increasing use of para-medical personnel, Dr. Cochran predicted. These people would not have a degree but would be trained to work as a team, doing such jobs as the time-consuming process of getting histories from patients. Dr. Cochran mentioned the increasingly important use of computers in medicine.

"Health services" is the concept being stressed. The doctor, as leader of the team of people involved in providing these services, must also be trained as a businessman, with a knowledge of leadership and group dynamics.

With a 75 per cent increase expected in the number of Canadian doctors between 1960 and 1976, a continuous re-evaluation of curricula and teaching methods must be continued at medical schools, the Calgary dean said.

He also stressed the need for a bigger part for social and behavioral sciences, as well as a solid background in the basic sciences.

Physicians, Surgeons College Gives Four Life Memberships

Meeting in conjunction with the B.C. Medical Association is the College of Physicians and Surgeons, which held its business session Monday night at the Capri.

The college is the professional organization which attempts to maintain standards of practice, ethics and operates a unique medical library service in Vancouver.

One of the main items of business was awarding honorary life memberships in the college to four doctors who have practised for 40 years or more.

Recipients of the awards were: Dr. Evelyn Trapp, Vancouver; Dr. James Daly, Trail; Dr. Murray Baird, Vancouver and Dr. Wallace Dorrance, Vancouver.

Each of the award-winners has made an outstanding contribution to medicine in the province, according to their fellows.

In his report to the college,

President Dr. W. O. Green said the organization is serving an increasingly important role for the province because of the "more complex problems that keep cropping up each month."

He mentioned the college's committee on ethics, which will soon have to come to grips with the question of organ transplants. The committee also safeguards the public from "improper medical care," the president said.

A new body within the college may have to be set up, he said, to deal with complaints from the public about doctors. The group would also aid doctors re-establish themselves if they received "disciplining" from the college for bad practice.

Guest speaker for the evening was Dr. Murray Newman, director of the Vancouver Public Aquarium. He lightened the pace of the evening with a talk on "Chasing Narwhals on Baffin Island."

Checks Expected During Practice

The day is almost over when a doctor will be granted an "absolute" licence to practice at the completion of the required number of years' training, the 220 delegates to the B.C. Medical Association convention here were told today.

Dr. R. W. Bell-Irving of Vancouver, chairman of the medical education committee, said soon the licence to practice will be conditional on periodic re-training and re-examination for competence to practice.

He said the government was going to demand this and doctors should be the ones to take the lead, doing their own measuring.

Today's sessions were devoted to reports, with Dr. F. S. Hobbs of Vancouver reporting on the four cases handled by the patterns of practice committee. Deviations are reported to the committee, at the rate of five to six a year by pre-paid plans.

In his report, president Dr. Michael Turko, Vancouver, said the association is concerned with the bed shortage in metropolitan areas and meetings were being held with the minister of health. Dr. Turko reiterated the Shaughnessy Hospital should be opened to the public and said a committee under instruction from Ottawa is investigating the possibilities.

The membership report of Dr. H. S. Gillespie, Vancouver, showed a total of 2,564, only 207 of which were new. The association was asked to consider extending membership to medical students at a nominal fee. The problem of doctors who don't join was also discussed, with Dr. G. Scott Wallace saying the associations should "stand or fall by its effectiveness."

VALLEY SCENE

George Strohm was installed as president of the Kelowna Toastmasters Club Monday, succeeding Don Worl. Geoff Conley was installed as educational vice-president, John Morrison as administrative vice-president and Fred Zubkoff as sergeant-at-arms. Mr. Morrison also won the Grant Bishop Trophy for a speech on "our brands." Icebreaker speeches were made by new members Leon Blumer and Maurice Lettsien.

Dr. Marion Dobson, of Winfield, received an apology from Dr. George Gibson, chairman of the general assembly at the B.C. Medical Association being held this week in Kelowna. The chairman apologized for not acknowledging the presence of a woman doctor at Monday's luncheon. "Don't worry, I'm used to it," Dr. Dobson replied.

The medical convention has 220 doctors registered, many of them accompanied by their wives. The attendance is said to be the best in the past 10 years.

The regular monthly meeting of the Kelowna Branch of the B.C. Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals will be held at 7:45 p.m. today in the Health Centre on Queensway.

In the 8-year-old age bracket, Jamie Wightman won first prize for best book report. He was followed by Rebecca Hansen as runner-up. Honorable mention was given to Leilani Weber, Barbara Wood, Carol Sieben, Susan Kepes and Dieter Jentish.

Joanne Powell won first prize for the 9-year-old group, with runner-up Gabriel Scherub. Ricky Schleppe, Monica Stone, Cathy Whiteside and Maevie Buckley received honorable mention.

Leading the 10-year-olds was Leigh Kitch, Pat McIsaac was runner-up with honorable mention going to Kevin Lewis, Shirley Pivnick and Laurie Kepps.

For the 11-year-olds, Mark McKibbin won first prize. Kim Anderson and Betty Jane Ashley were tied for runner-up. Honorable mention was given to Donna Coupal, Gail Crowther, Brian Ottenbreit, Robert Seath and Susan Wort.

Dr. Grant MacEwan will be the headline speaker when the Canadian Club kicks off its new season Oct. 23 at a dinner meeting in the Royal Anne Hotel.

Dr. MacEwan, lieutenant-governor of Alberta, will speak to the close to 120 members of the club on The Western Heritage of Heroes.

The Canadian Club, whose aim is to foster greater pride in Canada by bringing in nationally known speakers and Canadian topics, has announced two other notables who will speak in Kelowna this year.

Dr. A. Lovink, recently retired Netherlands ambassador to Canada, will speak on Diplomacy in the Jet Age, Nov. 26 and Shaun Herron, former editor of the British Weekly on Canada—The New Mood Jan. 14.

President of the Kelowna organization is Bert Johnston; vice-president, Peter Ritchie; secretary Mrs. W. F. Anderson and treasurer Nancy Gale.

Tickets at $7 a couple or $4 single can be purchased from any of them, or Mrs. I. J. Brazziel, R. E. Bealster, John Bottie, Jeff Coffey, Gordon Crossley, Ernest Jensen and Les Stephens.

Additional speakers will be announced later.

United Appeal Support Grows

The safety blitz is a tactic employed on the gridiron to red dog the passer and throw him for a loss.

In Kelowna that bugbear menace, apathy, has been blitzed and the Central Okanagan Community Chest offence is grinding it out.

Community Chest chairman Mike Roberts may not bark the signals "hut two, hut" a la Bart Starr or Johnny Unitas, but the message after a Monday huddle with campaign regulars came through loud and clear.

"Slightly more than 70 per cent of the businesses in the commercial and industrial division have completed their contributions" and the remainder, including those which have not yet been contacted, will be called in the next two weeks, he said.

The majority who have not paid are big firms, which must make their arrangements through the head office. "The firms have pretty well been hit, with but a few exceptions, and there are relatively few remaining to be contacted," he said.

"The results are pretty good so far," he said. "We are waiting for the balance to come in to see how we stand."

Co-operation by local businesses in assisting the commercial and industrial division complete its drive has been tremendous, he said.

A special meeting was held at noon Monday at which Glenn Lawrence gave a report on the canvass so far. The meeting was attended by all vice-chairmen of the commercial division, Mr. Roberts, Monty Cordingley publicity chairman, and Joe Reid, executive chairman of the campaign.

Mr. Cordingley said there was good reason for optimism on completing the initial stage but a clear appraisal of progress of the drive in its second official week could not be made.

Elsewhere on the United Appeal scene, the campaign has run into a minor snag. Mike Rudkin, chairman of the residential section, said he "have run into troubles in Rutland."

Previous indications were the Chest had engaged zone leaders in each of the 17 districts into which canvassing has been divided, but plans fell through in Rutland and two zone leaders are required.

Mr. Rudkin said the Chest invites volunteers for the two positions. The two people would be charged with organization work and the actual canvassing would be left to the volunteers.

Meanwhile, Bill Finley, a member of the firms and employees' division said all the banks, city hall, federal government employees and the RCMP have been contacted. "Response has been favorable," he said.

Replying to query about the number of contacts essential to ensure results, Mr. Finley commented, "once is more than enough to get things going."

The firms and employees section last week contacted employees in the Central Okanagan explaining ways they could contribute.

Under the payroll deduction plan, one of the most popular ways of giving, an accountant of a campaigner who tries to sell him on the idea of contributing.

Through the plan a donation can be spread over 10 months. Another way of giving is by the bank account pledge, whereby the contributor signs a pledge card and names his bank and the donation is spread over 10 months.

CITY BRIEFS

Canada Water Act Support Being Received By Kelowna

Kelowna continues to gain support for early implementation of the Canada Water Act. After the Union of B.C. Municipalities endorsed Kelowna's bid to have the act made law quickly, the city wrote to every MP in B.C. Replies to date, from both Liberal and New Democratic members, indicates widespread support of the Kelowna action.

The water act, among other things, would force tighter pollution control.

Continued support of the 1968 Central Okanagan Community Chest campaign was sought at Monday night's city council meeting by Ald. E. R. Winter, who said the chest needs widespread public support to reach the $58,000 goal. He urged citizens in the area from Winfield to Westbank to "support the volunteer canvassers by being ready for them."

This is Fire Prevention Week and Ald. Winter told the council the Kelowna Fire Brigade is working hard to promote various events during the week and hopes the public is aware of the need to be cautious of fire hazards the year around.

Paving from side to side has been suggested by Mayor R. F. Parkinson on Ellis Street, immediately north of Harvey Avenue. He said recent work on the intersection's north-west corner helped ease traffic problems, but paving of current gravel areas would help even more.

Vic Haddad, chairman of the board of trustees of the Kelowna General Hospital, is reported continuing to recover in the hospital after collapsing recently at the Kelowna Golf and Country Club. Mayor Parkinson told the council Mr. Haddad may be out of the intensive care section today and the whole council wished him a speedy recovery.

Ald. Winter said he did an excellent job, particularly during the current hospital construction period.

Kelowna hospitality was successfully spread in the Halifax area recently, said Ald. Winter, as he reported on his trip to welcome the submarine HMCS Okanagan to service with the Canadian Armed Forces. Ald. Winter, acting mayor for September, joined with civic and Indian officials from the three major Valley centres in welcoming the submarine to Canadian service.

The council rejected a request made earlier this year by the Kelowna Museum for permission to place a sign on Harvey Avenue giving directions to the museum. Mayor Parkinson said there were enough signs. Ald. R. J. Wilkinson, the city's representative in museum matters, said a sign would be helpful, but perhaps on Bernard Avenue.

Ald. J. W. Bedford said the way motorists bang into each other for the past 26 drivers and the "they have enough trouble just watching the road."

Tax prepayments to the end of September were $1,128,784, up $61,080 from the amount paid to the date last year. Payment deadline for 1968 taxes is Oct. 21.

Authorized was an agreement with the Okanagan Telephone Company for installation of pay telephones at the new Kelowna Airport terminal building. The city will receive 10 per cent of the gross receipts, paid quarterly.

Given final reading was a bylaw authorizing the leasing of land on the west side of Ellis Street from the Glenmore Irrigation District at an annual rental of $1, for five years, from July 17, 1967.

Final reading was also given a bylaw authorizing a special use certificate to the First Lutheran Church to build a church on the south side of Bernard Avenue, in the 1500 block.

Final approval was given a bylaw to close a lane adjacent to 654 Harvey Ave. so it can be consolidated with two lots being used for a new Dairy Queen. Ald. Winter, against the development from the start, was the only council member opposing the bylaw.

First three readings were given a bylaw to release an option to purchase held by the city to Milevale Agencies Company Ltd. for land at 855 Baillie Ave.

On Monday is Thanksgiving Day, the meeting was adjourned to the call of the chair, after the council took one hour and 10 minutes to handle a moderate agenda.

Brier Sound Heard Again

The excitement of the 1968 Canadian Curling Championship was re-lived by about 25 city residents Monday night.

A 30-minute color film, The Kelowna Brier, was shown to city council members and several members of the Kelowna Brier Committee after Monday's regular city council meeting.

Brier chairman Harold Long said the film will leave the city for a short while, but two copies will be circulated to curling clubs in each Canadian province, to give Kelowna continued publicity.

Kelowna was the smallest Canadian city, with by far the smallest arena, ever to host the curling championship. In spite of this the city now ranks 13th on the list of attendance totals.

CUPE MET 'OBSTRUCTIONS'

The statement continues: "To facilitate a return to the bargaining table in Vernon and an end to the strike, we offered to withdraw from these negotiations the demand for wage parity with coast municipal workers. The Vernon city council declined the opportunity to give us a direct reply. Instead, they waited until Oct. 3 and meekly voted yes for the OMMMA statement prepared by R. S. S. Wilson, a professional labor consultant from Vancouver. Mr. Wilson the absentee Mayor of Vernon?"

"It ill behooves Ald. A. C. Andrews of Kamloops to give his name to the Oct. 3 statement of the OMMMA as he did. That statement broadly infers that CUPE locals in this area are out of step with the policy of their national union in withdrawing from regional bargaining. In the first place, regional bargaining is not a fixed policy to be applied automatically in every bargaining situation.

"It is one of the structures used in collective bargaining. It can be applied successfully under certain conditions but not in all situations. For that matter, certain forms of municipal government are applied in some areas without being accepted in other areas which bear many similarities. If we are opposed to free collective bargaining because we have withdrawn from regional negotiations at this time, then the two municipalities of North Vancouver (city and district) are opposed to free government because they voted against amalgamation. CUPE supports the principle of regional bargaining, but our locals enjoy a wide degree of autonomy. They must make their own decision on this matter. Regional bargaining is a tool that can be used in collective bargaining under certain conditions. It is not a principle. As a matter of fact, in many parts of British Columbia municipal councils and school boards have refused to agree to regional bargaining.

"It would appear there is a deliberate plan to weaken or destroy the Canadian Union of Public Employees in this area, but the plan will not work. We have the full support of our national union with its 120,000 members, the British Columbia Federation of Labor and the Kelowna and Kamloops labor councils.

"There is a strong suspicion on our part that the OMMMA is acting with the encouragement and support of the Union of British Columbia Municipalities than 1,000.

Firearms Missing

Two rifles were stolen overnight from the home of Don Burch, 880 Glenmore Dr.

RCMP said the theft was reported by Mr. Burch's wife at 8:30 a.m. today. They did not mention the value of the rifles.

The after-school traffic rush at the Kelowna Vocational School resulted in a minor collision Monday. Dianne Chavowski, Langford Road, and Stanley McCaw, Williams Lake, were involved in a two-car crash in the school's parking lot at 4:20 p.m. Damage was estimated at $100 by RCMP.

A hit-and-run driver smashed into a car belonging to Harold Lindroth, Mountain View Trailer Court, at 5:45 p.m. Monday. The car was parked at Shona Capri. RCMP said damage to Lindroth's car was more than $100.

British Columbia Municipalities than 1,000.

Two Trips For Brigade

The Kelowna Fire Brigade was called early today to extinguish a mattress fire at 810 Wilson Ave.

The fire fighters did not give details of how the fire started, but said it was confined to the mattress and did little damage. The call was received at 4:50 a.m.

The brigade responded to a call from employees at Occidental Life Insurance Company, 1560A Water St., Monday at 1:15 p.m. People in the building said there could smell something burning. After a quick search, the firemen discovered a burnt-out furnace motor was causing the odor. No damage was done to the building.

Pupils' Summer Reading Concludes With Rewards

For 76 Kelowna children, summer vacation was more than all play and no work.

Certificates and book awards were presented Saturday by the Okanagan Regional Library in Kelowna to children belonging to the Summer Reading Club. Youngsters receiving certificates were those who read 10 books and wrote reports on them. Mrs. Barbara Davis presented the certificates.

For the best book report in each age group, book prizes were handed out by Mrs. Bonney Murdoch, children's librarian.

In the 8-year-old age bracket, Jamie Wightman won first prize for best book report. He was followed by Rebecca Hansen as runner-up. Honorable

Bronc Champ Riding Today

A $3,000 purse will be up for grabs when the final event in the Okanagan cutting horse championships kicks off at 8 p.m. today at the Kelowna Stables.

Three horses are vying for the money, but the top six horses are all in contention. Peggy San, 1967 world champion, owned by C. N. Woodward of Douglas Lake Ranch, in second place in the current standings will be out to defend his title. Two others, Rocky Lolly Bar owned by Royal Burrows of Midnapore, Alta., leading the 1968 race and Reyjay Junior, owned by Bill Collins of Edmonton in second will be out to knock off the incumbent.

In addition to the cutting horse finals former world champion bronc rider Kenny McLean of Okanagan Falls will put on a display of bronc riding and calf roping. About 900 spectators are expected. The stables are on Highway 97 north, near the overpass.

Additional speakers will be announced later.

'Thanks For Help'

Mayor R. F. Parkinson and the City of Kelowna have been thanked for helping stage the recent annual convention of the B.C. Amateur Hockey Association.

Wally MacCrimmon, first vice-president of the Kelowna Minor Hockey Association, said in a letter to the mayor, the association "would like to extend its thanks to you and the City of Kelowna for your assistance in hosting the 48th annual B.C. Amateur Hockey Association."

"We would like to thank you personally for taking time out of your very busy and hectic duties to attend two of our functions."

"We would like you to pass on to your council, our thanks for the $200 to sponsor the luncheon."

"We would also like you to pass our thanks to Gordon Smith and Helen Matuska of the park, and recreation office for all their help in making this convention the great success it was."

Another in a seasonal series of weekly drops has been recorded in the level of Okanagan Lake. The level Monday was 101.18, compared with 101.22 one week ago and 99.45 at the same time one year ago.

Irresponsible Drivers Main Accident Cause

Most authorities agree about the main cause of the rising accident toll on our highways. Much of the blame does rest on the shoulders of tens of thousands of irresponsible motorists who show a shocking disrespect for rules of the road.

The truth is—and most of us have known this for years—that very few people who drive cars really give a damn for anything else on the road. Practically all of us knowingly break at least one sensible rule of the road every time we get behind the wheel of a car. Some of us consistently break the rules.

There is an answer to public irresponsibility and that is stricter laws, stiffer sentences and rigid law enforcement (even if it means spending a couple of million more dollars per year in the hiring of more policemen).

First of all the serious offenders must be slapped hard. People who drive while their privilege to do so is under suspension should be sent to gaol. Drunk and impaired drivers should be treated in the same manner. Molly-coddling by the courts should be ended if the accident toll is to be successfully attacked. Why should a man who might lose his job if he loses his driving privileges, be let off with a fine when another driver, convicted of the same offence, loses his licence as well as his fine money?

Every person who is deemed fit to hold a driver's licence in the first place (and here is another area which needs a hardline approach) should be treated equally under the law. The fact is that a man whose job depends on his car deserves no sympathy; he should be doubly careful.

Simple P.R. Problem

(The Printed Word)

Years ago a couple of post office employees sought advice on how to improve the public's opinion of the post office. The answer was simple—deliver the mail and deliver it promptly. There was not then, and is not now, any other public relations problem for the post office.

The postmaster-general, the man of today, wants to make the post office a money-making institution, as if money-making were the end-all and be-all of existence. Mr. Kierans is missing the point. The post office never was intended to make money. It was designed as a public service and that it is likely to remain.

One wonders if Mr. Kierans has all the historical facts about the post office. A great Liberal throughout a long, long life, W. P. Mulock, is known best in history for his being the father of imperial penny postage. No one thought of imperial penny postage as a scheme for making money. No one, according to the history books, thought of it other than as something that would help bind Victoria's empire closer together. And the empire outlived the Queen and even the rugged Grit who thought of penny postage and its advantages.

These advantages do not include the giving away of all advertising facilities for the benefit of those who would ride free when they should pay a reasonable amount for first, second, third, fourth and any other classes that Mr. Kierans can think up. Perhaps he can think of a balance other than a money balance.

Mr. Mulock achieved one of the higher ranks of knighthood when it was in flower. There was something else to think of than cash in those days.

Reason Not Sentiment

(Orilla Packet and Times)

Speech is simply a means of communication; it follows, therefore, that the language one chooses to speak should be that which best allows one to communicate with the people one comes into significant contact with. The moment one's choice of language is motivated by chauvinism or sentiment rather than utility, one creates an artificial situation which, if persisted in, can only lead to absurdity.

This is what is happening in Quebec today. It is obvious to any new immigrant to this country that English, the tongue of the vast majority of Canadians and, more important, of the enormous neighbor which dominates every phase of our culture, is the one to learn if he hopes to make something of himself beyond the restricted field of French Canada. Yet by pretending that English, the nearest thing today to a universal language, must share established status here with French, Canadians have allowed a situation to develop in which immigrants to Quebec are to be compelled to learn French only, and so become second-hand Canadians with a limited economic future. Furthermore, by pretending that Quebec enjoys sovereign status within confederation, a nation within the nation and equal to all the other provinces combined, we have allowed the present situation to develop, in which Quebec proposes to refuse any rights to the English language in its politics, law, business or education. Having allowed Quebec French-Canadians to retain their language, English-speaking Canadians there are now to be denied the use of their own tongue.

Such actions, which would virtually isolate Quebec from business and cultural intercourse with North America, and indeed from the greater part of the western world, are manifestly preposterous, mere pandering to parochial pride. Yet these are the inevitable consequences of our own unworthy attempts to ingratiate ourselves with French Canada by pretending that we are but equal partners in a truly bilingual state; a proposition which has imposed such grotesqueries as French radio stations in Toronto and French postal clerks in Victoria on an incredulous but acquiescent public.

It is long since time that all this pretentious buffoonery was replaced by policies based on realism. It has to be accepted that, since our economic patterns are established beyond our borders—and beyond, therefore, our legislative control—the language spoken there—English—must inevitably be the language used in much of our business. Since it is also the language of almost all our books and movies and television, it must be apparent that anyone who cannot speak it cannot achieve his ultimate potential in any field. Those willing to pay such a price to gratify pride of race are free to do so, but it is not a course to be forced on new Canadians by state compulsion.

The Kelowna White Cane Club held their first meeting of the season at the Women's Institute Hall. ALERT WEATHER STATION, ESTABLISHED JOINTLY BY CANADA AND THE U.S.A. IN 1950, IS THE FURTHEST NORTH PERMANENT HUMAN HABITATION IN THE WORLD. AT THE TOP OF ELLESMERE ISLAND, ONLY 500 MILES FROM THE NORTH POLE, METEOROLOGISTS MAKE OBSERVATIONS IN THE UPPER AIR SEVERAL TIMES A DAY BY SENDING UP HYDROGEN BALLOONS THAT CARRY RADIO TRANSMITTERS THAT SIGNAL CONDITIONS OF WIND AND TEMPERATURE.

They Don't Laugh Now, Crows Candidate Wallace

WASHINGTON (CP)—George Corley Wallace, 49, pugnacious former governor of Alabama, almost overnight has mounted the biggest third-party presidential challenge this country has seen in this century.

"They're not laughin' at us any more," he crows as the money pours into his campaign coffers and the groundswell of support spreads from its southern fountainhead through neighboring states as far into the North.

Big-party strategists who once belittled the presidential ambitions of the fiery little Alabama now look with dismay at the growing legion falling in behind the banner of his right-wing American Independence party.

Where once he could hardly make a speech outside the South, without having to be rescued by police, now his volatile supporters drown out vast outnumbers critics.

Where until recent weeks the Republicans and Democrats saw him at most as a "soother," perhaps denying either Richard M. Nixon or Hubert Humphrey a clear victory, they now recognize in him a threat to the cherished two-party system.

Although most political observers still cannot conceive of George Wallace becoming president of the United States, they no longer dismiss the possibility out of hand.

Wallace is hurting both major parties.

Much of the conservative vote that would traditionally go to Nixon now apparently is edging toward Wallace. On the other hand or a organized labor, a cornerstone of the Democratic party, has grown more affluent and more conservative. Its membership is worried about Negro competition for jobs, the Negro invasion of suburbia and Democratic-sponsored plans for bigger and better welfare and job-training programs.

"They say I'm only popular 'cause I'm saying what the people want to hear," runs one key phrase of Wallace's stock speech. "Well what's wrong with that?"

What he is saying now is a much less restrained version of what Barry Goldwater was saying four years ago in his futile Republican bid for the presidency.

Now, evidently, a broad band of the American middle-class is not only ready to listen but to embrace such philosophies.

Wallace's niche is to "my folks"—the "little man"—pitted against what is seen as the overwhelming authority of The Establishment. It is a movement fed by concern about the spirit of riot and revolt existing in the land and by what the majority of Americans consider to be a complete breakdown of law and order.

DISLIKES LIBERALS Wallace targets are the Communists, the liberals and left-wingers, the judges who are "too soft," the bureaucrats and the guideline writers; much of the news media, the dissident voices from pulp and campus, and what he calls the "pseudos" and "the elite select club." These latter he is never further identified, the space left blank for the listener to fill in with his own personal villain.

His heroes include FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover in particular and policemen in general.

"If police ran things for two years we'd get these problems straightened out in this country," he says.

He has no broad, detailed policy, makes only glancing reference to the Vietnam war and much of what he says is contradictory.

"Nigger" and "nigger" have dropped from the vocabulary of this former taxi driver, Sunday school teacher and lawyer. Although he declares himself against discrimination that "offends anyone," he was and out-and-out segregationist as Alabama's governor.

The bloody struggle in Selma, Ala., that led to the enactment of the 1965 Voting Rights Act is dismissed as making a mountain out of an anthill. Today's demonstrators are the same "trash" and the "same crowd of scummy anarchists" that disrupted Selma.

A spectacular 2,300,000 voters signed petitions to get his name on ballots in various states and it now seems likely he will be listed in all 50 states. Georgia got 180,000 signatures and then quit counting.

California workers not 107,000—more than 41,000 more than needed.

MONEY ROLLS IN

The flood of campaign contributions—mostly of $5 and $10—has exceeded all expectations, workers say. Texas oil tycoons such as H. L. Hunt are backers.

A sketch of the typical Wallace supporter, as drawn from a wide variety of opinion polls, perhaps indicates something of the measure of the man.

For a start, almost 100 per cent are white. Most live in rural areas or small towns, have high school education, are in the $5,000-$10,000 salary bracket. About three-quarters of them feel progress for the Negro should be halted and timed as many feel Communists are behind the breakdown of law and order.

Most are Protestant. Backing from within the Negro and Jewish communities is virtually non-existent.

Amid all the glee in the Wallace camp there is the haunting recollection of a bit of American political history that has repeated itself over and over again.

There have been other skyrocketing third-party candidates. Their supporters followed them loyally, right up to the ballot box—then reverted to form and fell back to their old parties.

OTTAWA REPORT

Many Problems On Drugs Issue

By PATRICK NICHOLSON

The Pearson government introduced earlier this year, but failed to implement, a bill designed to facilitate the importation of patented medical drugs. The reasoning behind the bill was the entirely logical and well-known fact that a Canadian product is more expensive than a similar article manufactured in other countries where labor costs are lower than in Canada. Thus your local pharmacy could offer you your doctor's prescription at a lower price if the ingredients are imported from say Hong Kong than if they are manufactured in Canada.

The average Canadian bought three prescriptions costing a total of $10.38 in a recent year surveyed by the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association; the government hopes to reduce this element in the cost of living by permitting the easier importation of cheap foreign drugs.

AND CARS?

Canadians will hope to see the lowering of their clothing bills, currently running more than 10 times the size of their drug bills, through the similar importation of cheaper textiles and dresses and suits from Hong Kong and other low labor cost countries. It would be about 100 times cheaper still for our pocket books to have cheap Japanese cars made more readily available in Canada under the new thinking being applied to drugs. Sure, that would throw many Canadians out of work, but it would do even more to cut down the cost of living.

A similar bill to the uncompleted Pearson drug bill will soon be introduced into the new parliament.

Criticism of the original bill was heard in parliament from doctor-MPs on the grounds that it is impossible to check every shipment of imported drugs as to purity and medical efficacy. Cases have been exposed in the past of imported drugs being contaminated, and being in tablet form faultily compressed, and of lacking the correct medical efficacy, and even of being wrongly labelled.

Now there are new and disturbing cases of counterfeit "look alike" capsules and tablets slipping through the inefficient government net to reach our retail outlets. These look-alikes purport to be the product of reputable Canadian manufacturers, but in fact match them in nothing but appearance, being drugs offering immense profit to the conscienceless pedlars; they threaten uncurbed sickness and, in extreme cases, death for the luckless purchaser. The discovery of these counterfeit drugs in Canada emphasizes the government's problem in policing drug imports at the port of entry.

MAKER'S PACKAGE?

This new situation offers yet another argument in favor of a new suggestion being discussed here. At present, the patient receives his prescription from his druggist in a plain container with an uninformative label. As every Canadian mother knows, this leads to confusion and even danger in the medicine cabinet. In pharmacy circles the idea is now being considered that every Canadian manufacturer should package his product in "prescription size packages" which would then be sold as to the patient.

Each package would show the name of the drug, thus ensuring recognition in the medicine cabinet. It would show the manufacturer's name, thus providing reassurance as to quality. It would warn about possible reactions or side-effects. And it would also carry the manufacturer's batch number, thus facilitating recall in the event of any deficiency in that batch being discovered.

These four words—recognition, reassurance, reaction and recall—constitute a compelling slogan in favor of manufacturers abandoning the present bulk packaging, and substituting therefore a new system of prescription-size packaging. Most important, it would help the government by making the work of the criminal counterfeiters much more difficult.

TODAY in HISTORY

Oct. 8, 1968 . . .

Henri Christophe, the second Negro emperor of Haiti, shot himself 138 years ago today—in 1820—with a silver bullet and the country became a republic. Christophe was the last survivor of the three leaders of Haiti's revolt against French rule. Toussaint L'Ouverture died in a French prison and Jean-Jacques Dessalines, the first emperor, was assassinated. Haiti had prospered during Christophe's 14-year reign but he was considered cruel and repressive.

1877—Wilfrid Laurier became minister of inland revenue.

1904—The cities of Edmonton, and Prince Albert, Sask., were incorporated.

First World War

Fifty years ago today—in 1918—President Wilson declared the evacuation of enemy-held Allied territory as a prerequisite for an armistice; the Selfridge line was broken during the Allied advance on the Western Front; British and American troops made progress between St. Quentin and Cambrai; French forces captured Rouvray.

Second World War

Twenty-five years ago today—in 1943—Allied 5th Army troops captured the important communications and air centre of Capua, less than 100 miles from Rome; Allied headquarters announced the Japanese abandonment of the southern half of Kolombangara Island in the Solomons; RCAF bombers attacked Hannover and Bremen.

ENTERTAINS TOURISTS

HALIFAX (CP) — Kenneth Grant has spent the last two summers playing the bagpipes for tourists at a Halifax shopping centre. "You so often have people walking by that it's like playing to a brick wall," he says. He's been playing the pipes for eight years, but doesn't intend to make it a career.

TO SCRAP TANKS

TORONTO (CP) — Two impressive bumps on the Toronto skyline—cylindrical steel gas tanks with a total capacity of 18,000,000 cubic feet—are on their way to extinction. James Clark, superintendent of the Consumers' Gas Co. laboratory services, gave the order recently to light the flames which will bleed the thousands of cubic feet of gas remaining. The structures will be torn down this fall.

WORK FOR FREE

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 3,000,000 volunteer workers are serving Canadian charitable institutions and other gift-supported causes, reports the fundraising firm of G. A. Brakelley and Co. Ltd., of Montreal. It says volunteers are the basis of Canadian philanthropy, which exceeds $500,000,000 annually. They include 20,000 church workers and 20,000 leaders from business and the professions.

CANADA'S STORY

Gabriel Dumont

A Great Hunter

By BOB BOWMAN

Although the Red River uprising was settled in 1870 and Manitoba became Canada's fifth province, many of the Metis decided to give up their homes and make a new start farther west. Some of them mistreated the deal with the government; others feared encroaching civilization.

One large group moved to land near Fort Carlton and founded the mission of St. Laurent on Oct. 8, 1871. It was then that Gabriel Dumont, one of the most colorful figures in Canadian history, began to emerge. He was elected president, and governed the community with the organization and discipline of the buffalo hunts, the only life he knew. It was very effective.

Gabriel Dumont was one of the best hunters on the prairies. On one occasion when he was only a boy his companions were without meat. Captain, after a rain wind had failed to find buffalo but failed. Then, young "Gale" asked to be given a chance. He returned with an antelope over his shoulders, and then led his people to an area where there were so many buffalo they could not be counted. Dumont could "call" the buffers the way hunters call moose. He was a wonderful shot with low and arrow or rifle. He could put a bullet through the head of a duck at a range of 100 yards. Former Prime Minister Diefenbaker once saw Dumont give an exhibition of pistol shooting after he returned to Saskatchewan from his exile in the U.S.A. following the Birt rebellion of 1885.

Dumont had a special truck for telling when it was noon. He would face the sun, and he could stop the length of his shadow if it was 12 o'clock, and thus find for lunch.

OTHER EVENTS ON OCT. 8:

1642 Jeanne Mance began first hospital in Montreal.

1861 School "Good" built in Lake Umbagog with a number of distinguished passengers on board.

1877 Wilfrid Laurier joined parliament as Minister of Inland Revenue.

1901 Education and Prince Albert were incorporated.

1906 Provincial election opened for public service.

1861 Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived at Dover to begin tour of Canada.

CHATTING AT SHERRY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Hambleton were hosts at a delightful sherry party held Monday morning at the Hambleton Galleries for some hundred visiting ladies here with their husbands to attend the B.C. Medical Association Convention.

Snapped by the Courier photographer while chatting in the garden of the Galleries were—from the left—Mrs. N. D. Dalgleish from Saskatoon, wife of the president of the Canadian Medical Association; Mrs. R. M. Lane of Victoria, wife of the president-elect of the B.C. Medical Association, Mrs. Gordon Wilson, wife of the Kelowna chairman of the Convention, and Mrs. Michael Turko of Vancouver, wife of the retiring president of the B.C. Medical Association. Welcoming the guests on their arrival were Mrs. J. A. Holmes, and Mrs. K. A. France, chairman and co-chairman of the ladies program in Kelowna.

Wife Of Quebec's Premier Ideal Mate For Politician

QUEBEC (CP) — The wife of Quebec's new premier is a petite, brown-eyed beauty whose husband describes her as the ideal wife for a politician.

Mrs. Jean-Jacques Bertrand met her husband in her father's law office in the Eastern Townships village of Sweet'sburg, now annexed to Cowansville, 45 miles southeast of Montreal. "He was my father's associate. I met him at the office. It happened like that."

Gabrielle Giroux, whose father was a member of the legislative council, married Jean-Jacques Bertrand in 1944 when she was 21.

They have seven bilingual children. The family posed for pictures Wednesday with Marie, at eight the youngest child, sitting on her father's knee.

HUSBAND'S KNOWN AWAY
Mrs. Bertrand's husband has been in politics, and often away from home, for 20 of the 24 years of their marriage.

Jean-Francois, 22, in his final year of a political science course at Laval University, says his mother is "the ideal politician's wife" because she comes from a political family.

"With her, it has been total approval and understanding for my father from the start—especially in the difficult times."

Mrs. Bertrand says her grandfather, a Conservative, was in 1892 the first French-Canadian to settle in the region once inhabited mainly by United Empire Loyalists.

CLOSE TO DUPLESSIS
"My father was an intimate of Maurice Duplessis," founder of the Union Nationale party, Mrs. Bertrand said. "That's how Jean-Jacques got into politics."

The Bertrand family lives in a 100-year-old Norman-style clapboard house where Mrs. Bertrand was born May 15, 1923. She has not maintained a residence in Quebec City, but now must move here.

"I think the presence of the family is more important to him now than ever," she says. "Our presence will help him at the end of a long day."

She engages actively in campaigning merely by being present alongside her husband, the son of a CPR telegraph operator and station agent who was considered a Liberal.

Educated at a college classique or private Roman Catholic college at St. Hyacinthe, Que., Mrs. Bertrand speaks French and English, like the rest of the family.

KNOWS POLITICAL FACTS
The politician's wife says: "English-speaking people make up about 30 per cent of the electorate in our riding."

To help the children improve their knowledge of English, the Bertrands have sent them to summer camps in Ontario and have spent family holidays in the United States.

Andre, 23, the oldest, is a social worker in Montreal. Jean-Francois, 22, is a Laval student keenly interested in politics; Suzanne, 20, is a first-year student in medicine at the University of Sherbrooke.

Pierre, 19, is in his final year of classical college at St. Jean, Louis, 16, Louis-Philippe, 12, and Marie, 8, are the other children of this big family vaulted into the spotlight by the death of Premier Daniel Johnson.

Mrs. Bertrand says she felt a bit apprehensive watching her husband become 21st premier of Quebec. Her husband is 52. Daniel died at the age of 53.

Unwed Mother Should Be Able To Complete Academic Year

OTTAWA (CP) — Schools should stop expelling teenage girls when they become pregnant, the royal commission on the status of women was told Monday night by a group of Quebec psychologists.

"This policy hinders the immediate advancement of the pregnant girl's studies and seriously impairs her scholastic training and preparation for a career, and therefore her future," the Corporation of Psychologists of Quebec said in a brief.

"The young unwed mother should be able to complete the academic year in her own school... or after her confinement to resume her studies at the school regardless of her plans for her child."

The psychologists asked for an examination of "the system of values which decries that certain types of sexual behavior are illegal and abnormal for women, yet tolerated, if not accepted, for men."

The brief asked for more sex education for adolescent girls and for consultation services that would help young unwed mothers during their pregnancies.

Earlier in the public hearing, the commission was told that many girls found wandering city streets are picked up by police and convicted of vagrancy even though they have committed no criminal offence.

Mrs. George Olden, chairman of the Ontario Elizabeth Fry society, said:

"Societies—voluntary agencies working with female offenders—said most big cities have built hostels where men can go when they find themselves homeless. But such provision is seldom made for girls, who are branded with criminal records arising from vagrancy charges."

In their brief to the commission, the psychologists appealed for different and more humane treatment of women criminals, who too often are shunted to one side in a court-and-jail structure designed for men.

Rosemary Hodgins of Toronto told the Commission:

"Our male legislators, judges and police seem to have a mental picture of a criminal as a man or a boy."

"We can no longer excuse their stubborn refusal to look at the well-documented differences between male and female offenders."

Another society worker, Mrs. R. J. Booker, said courts dealing with non-violent women offenders should make greater use of probation services and should consider sending women alcoholics and addicts to hospital rather than to jail.

ANN LANDERS

No Need To Marry This Type Of Man

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the woman who married a homosexual and didn't realize it until it was too late opened my eyes. What I see might be completely meaningless, but then again, it could save me from making a horrible mistake. Please guide me.

Rod and I started to date two years ago. I was 20 and he was 24. For the first 18 months our dates were casual—almost platonic. When he asked me to "be his girl" and not to date others, I agreed, because by then I had become very fond of him.

Last night Rod asked me to marry him. I want to say yes, but I'm afraid he might not be normal. This is the story: Rod has kissed me only twice in all the time we have been going together. Those two kisses, I believe, were my idea, not his. Also, it was like kissing a marble slab. I'm sure Rod has never had any previous sexual contact with a girl and one could hardly call those two kisses "sexual."

Rod has a male friend who is a known homosexual. He spends more time with this friend than he does with me. When I questioned him about their close relationship, he said he feels sorry for "Mary." (This is the man's nickname and everyone calls him that) and he doesn't care what people say—he is not going to forsake him. What do you think of this, Ann?—Z.X.Y.

Dear Z.: I think you don't need a 26-year-old husband who has kissed you twice in two years and has a boyfriend named Mary.

Dear Ann Landers: Sunday, just as we were leaving the house for church, I glanced at my wife and nearly died. I yelled, "Bertha, you forgot your skirt!" She screamed, "You boob, this is my new outfit."

Bertha has added about 20 pounds since we married in 1948. She is also a little bowlegged. Short skirts don't do a thing for her. She claims it is more important for a woman to be in style than to wear something flattering. She won't listen to me. Will you tell her?—AGIN' EM

Dear A.: It would be a waste of time. The overaged and overweight dolls who insist on wearing hiked hemlines are hopeless. A woman who refuses to listen to her husband and doesn't believe what her mirror tells her wouldn't pay any attention to me.

Dear Ann: It's time Mrs. Housewife, U.S.A., treated her baby sitter like a paid employee instead of "that kid down the street." After all, if we are mature enough to be trusted with her most precious possessions—her children—why shouldn't we be treated like responsible people and not punk kids?

Most of the women I work for are nice, but two women are so rude I don't know what to do about them. (Their children are terrible, too.) Mrs. A. told me to use the phone "unless you have to call the police or the fire department." Mrs. B. said "Please eat at home. I'm not running a boarding house."

Last night Mrs. B. told me not to turn on the TV because the tubes were weak. Would I be justified in not sitting for people who don't treat me right? I need the money, but I also need my self-respect.—SALLY

Dear Sally: You should not sit for people who do not treat you properly and I hope you will tell Mrs. A. and Mrs. B. why you are no longer interested in accepting jobs with them. They might learn something.

Birth Control Pills For Men Coming Up

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — Birth-control pills for men?

If it's possible, then Dr. A. B. Lakshman of Laurentian University's biology department intends to find out.

Using a grant from the Ford Foundation, he is carrying out investigations on the effects of some anti-fertility agents on sperm production.

He's examined 28 hormones and has narrowed his experiments to one—a steroid known as "19-nor."

"Of 28 hormones tried, this is the only one with no side effects," said Dr. Lakshman, who has used white rats and hamsters to test the hormone.

He said that besides having no side-effects, 19-nor is reversible, meaning that once its use is discontinued, normal sperm production returns in a short time.

Dr. Lakshman's work is a continuation of research he carried out in 1965 with Dr. Gregory Pincus, developer of the oral contraceptive for women. Dr. Pincus died last year.

HITHER and YON

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jabour are leaving Wednesday for Mexico City to attend the Olympic Games, after which they plan to visit other parts of Mexico. While Mr. and Mrs. Jabour are holidaying Mr. Jabour's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Scott will look after their home and their children.

Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Scramstad and the latter's sister Mrs. Lilly Etherbridge from Edmonton arrived in Kelowna today and will visit Mr. and Mrs. P. T. Scramstad, Dr. and Mrs. P. D. Scramstad and Percy Byers and his daughter Dorothy while here.

Over 30 members of the Couples Club of the First United Church enjoyed a very interesting evening last week when their special guests were Joan and Jim Burbridge, whose subject was "Take a Walk. Mr. and Mrs. Burbridge showed beautiful slides of the many native flowers, insects, birds and animals, accompanied by a commentary, full of humorous experiences in connection with their slides, as they went along. The evening closed with a short business meeting and delicious refreshments were served.

Rick Pratt, Miss Virginia Potter and G. Teague spent the past weekend in Kelowna visiting Mr. Pratt's parents Mr. and Mrs. D. G. Pratt, Orchard Manor.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Bruce Smith returned from Calgary last week where Mr. Smith attended the Canadian annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bennett travelled to Vancouver last week to take part in the 1968 Northwest International Horse Show, staged at the PNE Agro-dome, where Mr. Bennett's horse "Stockbroker" received great acclaim by winning the Louis Garino Memorial Trophy for jumpers Champion of the Show.

Other Valley residents attending the Horse Show included Mr. and Mrs. William Harris and family, and Dr. and Mrs. W. H. Henderson and family from Rutland, G. D. Cameron, Mr. and Mrs. Rod Dewhurst and family, and Mrs. June Cope from Kelowna. Mr. and Mrs. Norman Apsey, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas E. Hughes and Barbara, Mrs. William Haskett and Mrs. Eric Bateson of Okanagan Mission, and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Chalmers with Sandra, Mrs. Percy Cookson and Mr. and Mrs. William Gordon and Alayne from South Kelowna.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lightbody and their four children who have been the guests of Mrs. Lightbody's parents Dr. and Mrs. Walter Anderson during the Liberal Convention in Penitence have returned to their home in West Vancouver.

OKANAGAN CENTRE
Fred Houton who has been home on compassionate leave has returned to Germany where he has one year of duty remaining in the Medical Corps. While home he showed his friends slides taken on his travels in many European countries including Spain, Italy and Austria.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Colbourne of Red Deer were recent visitors at the home of the former's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. A. Gellatly.

Miss Sharon Koyama left for Calgary recently where she is attending the Southern Alberta Technical Institute.

Regional Council Of Senior Citizens Holds Annual Meeting In Kelowna

The Annual meeting of the Okanagan Regional Council of Senior Citizens was held in the Kelowna Clubroom on September 27 with 87 members present from Kamloops to Princeton.

At noon the group sat down to a delicious turkey dinner, and after the reports had been given by the delegates, the election of officers took place.

Mrs. P. L. Gibbs of North Kamloops was elected president, Mrs. M. Gavino of Princeton vice-president, and Mrs. Frank Oslund of Kelowna was re-elected secretary.

The main projects of the three branches were also discussed. Princeton's project being low rental housing units for Senior Citizens; Oliver is planning a Senior Citizen's Hall, and Library, and Kelowna's project is furnishing a room in the Chronic Hospital Wing of the Hospital.

A short musical program followed by a game of Bingo brought the enjoyable evening to an end.

The next project of the Kelowna Senior Citizens is their Bazaar and tea on October 26, which will feature door prizes, post office, a bake sale, and a fancy work stall; and on November 16th these busy people will hold a rummage sale.

A meeting of the Camp Arbuckle Building Committee will be held on Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. in the Board Room of the Parks and Recreation Office, Mill Street. Anyone interested in Camp Arbuckle is welcome to attend.

Okanagan Bridge Unit To Host Western Sectional At Kelowna

Bridge players from all parts of Western Canada and North West U.S.A. will attend the four day bridge tournament organized by the Okanagan Unit, and hosted in Kelowna on Thanksgiving weekend, October 11th to 14th.

The Okanagan Bridge Unit with headquarters at Kelowna, is the parent body of the several Clubs within the area of Vernon to Oliver, and operates under the franchise of the American Contract Bridge League. The growth of duplicate bridge in this district has also required the setting up of a second unit, the Shuswap, in Kamloops, to govern the affairs and interests of Bridge Clubs in the Kamloops-Revelstoke area, which clubs were originally in the Okanagan unit.

Competing in the Championship events at this sectional will be many top ranking players of Life Master Ratings, that is with over 300 Master points, and this year Kelowna will have the first Okanagan Unit Life Master, William Heppner of Summerland who attained this high ranking status in September 1968, and entered this exclusive circle.

The bridge events and social functions of the tournament will be held at the Capri Motor Hotel, and the bridge program will consist of seven championship events and two side games, the latter for non-tournament players who wish to enjoy the social aspect of the tourney. Commencing Friday afternoon Oct. 11th at 1:30 p.m. the Men's Pairs, and the Women's Pairs championships will be played, and will be followed in the evening by the Mixed Pairs' championship and the side event Ogopogo Pairs. Both the evening events will commence at 7:30 p.m. The wine and cheese party at 11 p.m., will complete Friday's program.

On Saturday at 1:30 p.m., the Open Pairs', qualifying round, will be played with the final of this championship timed for 8 p.m. The Consolation event will also commence at 8 p.m., and is open to all additional pairs who wish to enter this side event.

On Sunday the two Master Pairs' championship will be programmed, one for players with over fifty master points, and the other for players with less than fifty. The first session of each event will start at 1:30 p.m., and the finals of both at 7:30 p.m. The concluding bridge event will be the teams of four championship, a one session event starting at 11 a.m. on Monday, Oct. 14th.

There are prizes for each event on the play program, and a special trophy will be awarded to the member of the Okanagan Unit winning the most master points in the tournament. Of special interest to local players is the "Team of Four" championship event.

which trophy was previously won by a Ladies Team from the Kelowna Club, and it is anticipated that many local teams will be entering this event for further success.

Partnership committee co-chairmen, Mrs. Dorothy Seibolt, and Mrs. Ellen Trent, of the Vernon Bridge Club, have arranged to set up a partnership table to be located near the Capri Hotel desk, and players without partners are requested to apply at this table at least thirty minutes prior to the time of any event.

Sectional tournament hostess, Mrs. J. S. D. McClymont and her committee are busy completing arrangements for the guest reception and social functions, including a wine and cheese party, the social hour between play session on Saturday evening, and the "Chef's Special" on Sunday night.

The complete program has been designed to provide interest and enjoyment for all players attending, says tournament chairman R. V. Thomas, and all non-tournament bridge players will be welcome to participate in the side event Ogopogo Pairs, and the hosted party on Friday evening Oct. 11.

Sectional programs are freely available at the Capri Hotel desk, and further information may be obtained by phoning 762-2267.

The executive of the Unit Board consists of the president J. T. Hyde of Armstrong, secretary-treasurer H. R. Crosby of Kelowna, Membership chairman Mrs. W. J. Mackenzie of Kelowna, Law and ethics V. N. Andreev of Okanagan Mission.

Floods, Slides Kill 560 In Sub-Himalayan Region

CALCUTTA (AP) — Devastating floods and landslides caused by four days of torrential rain in India's sub-Himalayan region have killed at least 560 persons, official spokesmen said Monday.

But the newspaper Amrita Bazar Parika estimated the death toll at more than 1,000 based on refugees' statements.

Government spokesmen said most of the known dead were killed by collapsing houses in the town of Darjeeling. They feared that unless washed-out road and rail links are restored, millions of people in the region will face a shortage of food.

Darjeeling and Jalpaiguri reported they are without drinking water and electricity and witnesses said Ghoom, Kurseong, Kalimpong and other hill towns near Darjeeling are almost in ruins.

Newspapers said 250 persons were killed in Jalpaiguri when the River Tista crested its banks early Saturday. The town was reported under 10 feet of water, preventing army helicopters from landing to rescue people sheltering on their rooftops. Spokesmen said the flood waters washed away parts of the 500-mile oil pipeline between Assam and Bihar State, cut roads and railways and brought down bridges.

The bidding:

South	West	North	East
1♦	Pass	1♥	Pass
3NT	Pass	Pass	Dble

Opening lead—seven of hearts. This remarkable hand comes from a rubber bridge game. North should have passed one diamond, but, unwilling to openly acknowledge his weakness by passing, he responded one heart.

Unaware of the sub-par response, South jumped to three notrump. South certainly lacked the classic notrump distribution, but as he was using a method by which this sequence showed a long, solid diamond suit, his bid was not unreasonable.

From his viewpoint, three no-trump was very likely to come home opposite most hands North could have for a heart response. But in the actual case, the bid worked out very poorly.

East doubled, commanding West to lead the suit dummy had bid. Delighted with the double, West licked his chops and led the seven of hearts. The ten lost to the jack and East returned the deuce of clubs.

South would have fared much better had he played the nine on the deuce, but, in a desperate effort to hold his losses to down one, he put up the king. West took the ace and led another heart.

East cashed his five hearts and the jack of clubs, after which he led a spade to West's ace. West then cashed the Q-8-6 of clubs, bringing his side to 12 tricks, and administered the coup de grace by returning a spade to the king. So South went down nine—2,900 points!

North was clearly responsible for the disaster. His heart bid was strictly for the birds — though it might have turned out to be a good tactical manoeuvre under other circumstances—but his failure to rescue partner from three notrump doubled was an error of major proportions.

North should have realized that South was expecting not much value from him, which North very well knew he didn't have. He should have hauled out the white flag and bid four diamonds.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

FOR TOMORROW

It will be important to watch finances now. Any risky venture—whether in the line of speculation or spending beyond your means—could get you into hot water. No matter how attractive propositions may sound, give them extremely careful thought before accepting.

FOR THE BIRTHDAY

If tomorrow is your birthday, your horoscope indicates that on December 1st you will enter an excellent four-month cycle in which to forge ahead with important occupational and monetary programs—with rewards accruing not only at a result of past efforts, but also through the co-operation of those in a position to help you. Such valuable aid is likely to come your way in late November.

Whether in business or in creative work, your talents and abilities will be under excellent stimuli for the next 12 months, and you should net fine results from your endeavors, provided you do not yield to your innate tendencies toward vacillation, which could cause you to lose out on good opportunities, or hypersensitivity, which causes you to flare up and alienate those who, otherwise, would be "on your side." Most auspicious periods for monetary gain follow the December-March cycle: Next June, July and August; best for job advancement after March 31st; Next May and September.

There may be some changes on the domestic front in mid-July, probably in the way of environment, but they should prove beneficial. Most propitious periods for romance: November, January, May, late June and late July; for travel and stimulating social activities: Between now and mid-January; also next July and August.

A child born on this day will be endowed with great insight and fidelity; could succeed as a lawyer, jurist or top-flight musician.

Umpire Mistaken Says Lou Brock

DETROIT (AP) — Julian Javier rapped a single to left field, Lou Brock stormed toward the plate from second. Detroit left fielder Willie Horton quickly scooped the ball up and fired a single to catcher Bill Freehan. Brock didn't touch the plate, umpire Doug Harvey ruled. Brock said the instant replay on a television set in the St. Louis Cardinal dugout showed he was safe.

"In my opinion it was the biggest play of the game," the Cardinals' World Series super-hitter said. "It was the turning point."

"We had the makings of a big inning, and instead of one run, one man on and one out, there were two outs and no runs."

Brock is hitting .524 in the series and holds the highest lifetime batting average in World Series play—400. But he wasn't talking about his hitting after the game. It was the play at the plate in the fifth inning that drew all the attention.

"I had it beat. I beat the ball to the plate," Brock repeated quietly, but firmly. "There was no doubt about it."

"It wasn't close. He [Harvey] didn't call me out because it was close. He called me out for not touching the plate."

"I touched the middle of the plate."

"Freehan even came up behind me and tagged me while we were arguing," Brock insisted.

"The television replay showed I beat it. I saw it on the monitor in our dugout."

Brock had come in standing up. He barged into Freehan, and both reeled away from the plate.

"I didn't slide," Brock explained, "because I didn't think I'd have to."

"And I thought if I did slide, I would have been out. Everything indicated the play would be close, and when I hit the plate the ball hadn't reached Freehan."

"The umpire called the play immediately, not after the tag. The only time Freehan tagged me was while we were arguing."

The arguing didn't help Nelson Briles, who started for the Cardinals, or reliever Joe Hoerner, who came on in the seventh, faced four men and didn't get any of them out.

"I don't think I ever pitched to four men and didn't get anybody out," Hoerner said. "The ground ball Dick McAuliffe hit could have been at somebody, but it went through."

"I was hoping to get a ground ball and I got it, but it went through. It was just one of those days."

Winds Pound Into Mexico; Sailing Events Cancelled

MEXICO CITY (CP)—One storm seemed to abate for the moment, giving organizers a feeling of a safe surer chance the Olympic Games will have a peaceful opening Saturday.

But another named Rebecca threatened to disrupt yachting events at Acapulco. The fringes of the tropical storm unleashed torrential rain and heavy winds that forced cancellation of all sailing activities Monday.

The storm that eased, and the one organizers fear the most, was the one posed by dissident students whose battles against the government have led to bloody civil disorder.

Rebel student leaders met secretly at the National University Monday and announced they will not stage any more mass public demonstrations, at least for the time being.

But the students said they will continue their fight against government policies in other ways.

"This is no declaration of peace," said Roberto Escudero, one of the leaders of the Committee of 210, the rebel student governing body.

Escudero told reporters that fears of further punitive measures by the Mexican Army to put down renewed student rioting led to the rebel students' decision.

Escudero said the committee vetoed any more public demonstrations because "if we do, the army will crush us and kill us with their tanks."

"Without the demonstrations, there should be no more disturbances endangering the Olympics," he said.

Instead, the rebel students will form five-man brigades to spread leaflets in the streets of the Mexican capital and other major cities to keep the people informed of the students' struggle.

Escudero said the so-called "lightning brigades" also will meet secretly and break up before police can take action.

SEVERAL KILLED

Student disorders have been going on for 2 1/2 months, but the worst rioting broke out last Wednesday. Some reports placed the death toll near 50 but the government said 39 were killed Wednesday. The students claimed 200 were killed.

None of the Canadian Olympic team was caught up in the rioting, but that didn't keep the folks back home from worrying, said Dr. Paul Hauch of London, Ont., the team's medical officer.

"We knew nothing about it until we started getting telephone calls from home," Dr. Hauch said. There has been no sign of unrest in the Olympic Village which is several miles from the site of the demonstrations in downtown Mexico City.

Except for a couple of athletes, Dr. Hauch said the 144-strong Canadian squad is in great shame. The cyclists, who trained in France, and the equestrians, who have been here the longest, are adapting the fastest to the 7,000-foot altitude.

Then come the track and field team and the swimmers.

"But they're all coming along well," Dr. Hauch said. "In almost every case their blood count is up and that is good—it shows the team is responding well to the altitude."

EATING TOO MUCH

What worries the medical officer most is the way the Canadians are eating. "Our biggest problem is to get the kids to watch their diet," he said.

Canada's team is the largest in Olympic competition since before the Second World War, part of what figures to be the biggest gathering in Olympic history—some 7,000 athletes from 119 countries.

There are 19 sports categories in the 16-day Games that end Sunday, Oct. 27.

The 1968 Games have been dubbed by some observers the Problem Olympics.

But Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, told the IOC congress at its opening session Monday there have been many Olympics in the past where there were arguments over venues. But the problems were overcome and the countries themselves had benefitted from the Games.

"Mexico is well equipped to be the capital of world sport," Brundage said.

He defended the Olympic movement but admitted the Games have become too large and expensive, and some sports have become almost completely commercialized.

"It is alleged that the Games are outdated, defeated by politics and avarice; that the IOC is an anachronistic, undemocratic organization that must be reorganized; that there are conflicts with the national Olympic committees, the international federations; and that there is no more amateurs. All this is erroneous nonsense."

He called the Olympics "an oasis in an overcharged and overheated world."

"I should never become a forum for demonstrations. We must never allow the Olympics to be used as a tool or a weapon."

The 81-year-old Brundage hasn't said whether he will run for a fifth four-year term as IOC president. The vote probably is to take place Thursday.

Mexican President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz in his speech welcoming the 72-country IOC said that the spirit of the Olympics will prevail here and that the government would ensure that this spirit is not betrayed. "We shall fulfill our duty."

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Freehan, the Detroit Tiger catcher who has gone hitless in this World Series, sat in the dugout and watched Al Kaline go to the plate.

The bases were loaded in the seventh inning of Monday's fifth game, the Tigers were trailing 3-2 and Kaline was getting set to face St. Louis Cardinal reliever Joe Hoerner.

As Freehan watched Kaline, his thoughts went back to Sunday, and a comment he heard from Hoerner during the long rain delay.

"Hoerner said the one guy he'd rather not pitch to in our lineup was Kaline," the catcher related. "The rest of us are free swingers, he said, and Kaline isn't."

Then Kaline probably jolted Hoerner's memory, too, as he rapped a two-run single that sparked the Tigers to a 5-3 victory and forced the Series back to St. Louis Wednesday with the Cardinals' edge now reduced to 3-2.

But it wasn't only Kaline's single that kept the Tigers alive. There also was a crucial play by Freehan on Lou Brock

CENTRE OF CONTROVERSY

The Olympic Games open Saturday in Mexico City surrounded by more controversy than any other games ever held. One of the men in the centre of the controversy is International Olympic Committee president Avery Brundage, Brundage, speaking to reporters, is remaining silent on the question of his re-election. The IOC president will be elected during the games in Mexico City.

Hull, Mikita Key Players In Chicago's NHL Hopes

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP) — "We're relying heavily on Hull and Mikita to have good seasons and the others must pick up the slack to get us into the playoffs."

Coach Billy Reay of Chicago Black Hawks was assessing his club's chances for the coming National Hockey League season and, if anything, the 50-year-old native of Winnipeg was being realistic.

"There's no question that Bobby and Stan are two of the greatest players in the game today," Reay said following a recent exhibition loss to Pittsburgh Penguins.

"So it goes without saying that we're counting on them to repeat their performances of last year."

Mikita won his fourth scoring championship in five years with 40 goals and 87 points while Hull finished sixth among the top 10 scorers with 75 points, including 44 goals.

BOBBY HULL ... key figure

BOTH HOLDOUTS

Together they accounted for almost 40 per cent of the 212 goals the lack Hawks scored in 74 games. But neither Hull nor Mikita has signed his 1968-69 contract and both are said to be holding out for $100,000.

"Look, I got a little tired of hearing I have a problem handling Hull and Mikita," Reay said.

"They're a pleasure to coach and I only wish I had two more like them. I'm not worried about the fact that they're not signed."

The way I look at it is that they are two great stars dickering for what they can get and I wish them well."

The signing of Hull and Mikita is the least of Reay's worries. He's concerned about a lack of depth at centre and a defence that gave up 222 goals.

Reay traded veteran defenceman Pierre Pilote to Toronto Maple Leafs in exchange for right winger Jim Pappin in the off-season, but recently acquired unpredictable Howie Young from Oakland Seals on waivers.

DEFENCE WORRIES

"I'm worried about my defence, but not because Pilote is gone," he said.

"Pilote had a better first half last season than he did in the second and anytime you have an opportunity to deal for a 29-year-old, you have to act."

"We have two good young hitters in Gilles Marotte and Doug Jarrett. Pat Stapleton and Matt Ravelli both move the puck well but it's still a matter of bench strength."

"I feel Chico can do the job for us at centre, but I may have to move Bobby off left wing if things don't work out," he said.

REPLACES MOHNS

Dennis Hull has replaced Doug Mohns at left wing on the Scooter Line with Mikita and Ken Wharram while Mohns will play with Maki and Eric Nesterenko.

"The change is no reflection on Doug's play, it's just that Dennis is starting his fourth season with the club and I feel he rates a shot at playing with Mikita and Wharram," Reay said.

"Dennis is a real gunner out there, given the chance to shoot the puck, he'll put it in the net. Being Bobby's younger brother, the pressure is on him to do well."

Martin will centre for Bobby Hull and Pappin on the other line, but Reay still hasn't decided whether he will keep 11 or 12 forwards when he has to cut his roster to 18 players Oct. 21.

HAS CHOICES

He will have to choose his snare forwards from left wingers Wayne Maki and Bill Urban, who each played 50 games with Chicago last year, right winger Bob Schmutz and amateurs Cliff Koroll and Jim Whiste.

Schmutz had three goals and two assists in 13 games with the Black Hawks. Koroll, a 21-year-old right winger and Whiste, 22, were both All-Americans at the University of Denver last year.

Meanwhile, Reay is happy with his goaltenders.

Dennis DeJordy, who had a goals-against average of 2.80, reported to camp in the best shape he's been in in the last five years and Dave Dryden, a more-than-adequate backup man.

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline, of course, got the only real incentive he needed on the last day of the season when another long wait ended. For in a season when the Tigers were running in front of the field and headed for the American League pennant, Kaline seemed headed for a seat on the bench during the World Series.

Slowed by a broken right forearm and a groin pull, he had lost his job in right field. When he began to come around, Mickey Stanley, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup blocked his return to the outfield.

"I don't deserve to play in the Series," Kaline said as the season drew to a close. "It's killing me, but I know what Mayo Smith is up against."

What Mayo Smith, the Detroit manager, was up against was a tough decision in which he had to measure sentiment against reality. When Smith was through measuring, Stanley was at shortstop and Kaline in right field.

But despite the fact Stanley played shortstop the last six games of the regular season, Smith didn't tell Kaline he would be starting in the Series until the final day.

"I knew I shouldn't be thinking about it," Kaline recalled. "But I had a feeling. Somehow, somehow, I thought, he [Smith] has to play me."

DETROIT (AP) — Al Kaline, of course, got the only real incentive he needed on the last day of the season when another long wait ended. For in a season when the Tigers were running in front of the field and headed for the American League pennant, Kaline seemed headed for a seat on the bench during the World Series.

Slowed by a broken right forearm and a groin pull, he had lost his job in right field. When he began to come around, Mickey Stanley, Willie Horton and Jim Northrup blocked his return to the outfield.

"I don't deserve to play in the Series," Kaline said as the season drew to a close. "It's killing me, but I know what Mayo Smith is up against."

Kaline Produced Single That Kept Tigers Alive

DETROIT (AP) — Bill Freehan, the Detroit Tiger catcher who has gone hitless in this World Series, sat in the dugout and watched Al Kaline go to the plate.

The bases were loaded in the seventh inning of Monday's fifth game, the Tigers were trailing 3-2 and Kaline was getting set to face St. Louis Cardinal reliever Joe Hoerner.

As Freehan watched Kaline, his thoughts went back to Sunday, and a comment he heard from Hoerner during the long rain delay.

"Hoerner said the one guy he'd rather not pitch to in our lineup was Kaline," the catcher related. "The rest of us are free swingers, he said, and Kaline isn't."

Then Kaline probably jolted Hoerner's memory, too, as he rapped a two-run single that sparked the Tigers to a 5-3 victory and forced the Series back to St. Louis Wednesday with the Cardinals' edge now reduced to 3-2.

But it wasn't only Kaline's single that kept the Tigers alive. There also was a crucial play by Freehan on Lou Brock

Burning Rectal Itch Relieved In Minutes

Exclusive Healing Substance Relieves Pain As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids.

If you want satisfactory relief from "itching piles"—here's good news. A renowned research laboratory has found a unique healing substance that promptly relieves the burning itch and pain—actually shrinks hemorrhoids. This substance has been shown to produce a most effective rate of healing. Its germ-killing properties also help prevent infection.

In case after case "very striking improvement" was noted, even among cases of long standing. And this improvement was maintained over a period of months.

This was accomplished by a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulate growth of new tissue. Now Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation "H". Ask for it at all drug stores—satisfaction or money refunded.

Scouting Honors To Burnaby Boy

OTTAWA (CP) — A 16-year-old Burnaby, B.C., boy who overcame a progressive physical handicap to become a first-rate scout patrol leader was presented with one of scouting's highest awards by Governor-General Michener Monday.

Martin Barclay Brettell received the Cornwell decoration at a Government House ceremony where a total of 20 scouts and scout leaders were cited for acts of gallantry and service.

Handicapped from birth by a muscular disability which affects the use of his left arm and leg, Martin participated as fully as he was able in wolf cub activities and later in a boy scout troop.

Governor-General Michener, in his capacity as chief scout, commended the Burnaby boy for "the example which you set to other boys."

A soft-spoken young man who says his disability never affects his enjoyment of scouting, Martin was cited as "an excellent example of courage, perseverance and buoyant cheerfulness."

The Cornwell badge is named for Jack Cornwell, 16-year-old member of a gun crew at the naval battle of Jutland in 1916 who stayed at his post despite wounds after other members of the crew were killed.

The bronze badge is awarded only to those scouts who have reached a certain status in the movement under a severe handicap.

Among others receiving awards was 11-year-old David Thomson of Oliver, B.C. Wolf-cub Thomson was awarded the Gilt Cross for saving from possible drowning a young companion who fell from a raft into a lake in the spring of 1967. David jumped fully-clothed into the icy water of Tuc-El-Nuit Lake and managed to pull his friend to shore, 45 feet away.

France Unhappy On Nigeria War

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — France's dissatisfaction with efforts so far to end the Nigerian civil war was made clear by Foreign Minister Michel Debre Monday in a speech to the 125-country General Assembly.

His words stirred up a hornet's nest in the African membership, which has failed to achieve a Nigerian ceasefire through its regional peacekeeping organization, the Organization of African Unity.

A Nigerian spokesman asked for time at today's assembly session to reply to Debre.

Debre called for self-determination for the Biafran tribesmen who are fighting an apparently hopeless battle to take Biafra out of the Nigerian federation. He denounced "obstacles" that prevented the delivery of aid to starving victims of the civil war and called for a halt "to the shipment of weapons that are prolonging the fighting."

France is one of a handful of countries that have recognized Biafra.

"Each day," said Debre, "it becomes more manifest that only a solution based on the incontestable personality of the Biafran people, and consistent with the principle of self-determination inscribed in our charter, can settle that painful problem."

CALLS FOR JUSTICE

Foreign Minister Yifru of Ethiopia, which has been a leader in OAU efforts to bring about a Nigerian ceasefire, said the conflict should be resolved according to the wishes of the Nigerian people as a whole, on the basis of justice and security for all elements of the population.

Anyone wanting to assist in resolving the Nigerian crisis, said Yifru, should do so on the basis of Sept. 16, 1968, resolution of the OAU heads-of-state calling for an immediate cessation of hostilities and a solution

"within one Nigerian sovereign personality."

Foreign Minister Ahmed Laraki of Morocco voiced his country's approval of Nigeria's efforts to preserve its unity. He hoped the secessionist leaders would heed the OAU call to end hostilities and co-operate with Nigerian federal authorities.

Meanwhile it was announced in Ottawa that two members of Parliament just back from a Biafra fact-finding trip would ask External Affairs Minister Sharp here today to seek at the UN a Nigerian ceasefire. The two are Andrew Brown, NDP member for Toronto Greenway and David MacDonald, Conservative MP for Egmont.

The Canadian minister has had several private meetings here on the Nigerian civil war, about which spokesmen for all parties in the Commons agreed Monday they have insufficient facts.

Sharp on Monday had a second long meeting with Okoi Arika, Nigeria's external affairs commissioner. The Canadian minister said they discussed ways in which Canada could provide additional relief to the starving victims of the civil war.

The Canadian external affairs minister will deliver a major speech to the General Assembly Wednesday morning, and it appeared likely that Nigeria would occupy a prominent place in it. Debre in his advocacy of self-determination. Events in Nigeria, Czechoslovakia and Vietnam all illustrated, he said, the world's impotence in the face of violations of the rights of peoples to determine their own futures.

Bar to East-West co-operation in the search for peace could only be removed by termination of the Soviet military occupation of Czechoslovakia, said the French minister.

Four In B.C. Have Chance In Tax Draw

MONTREAL (CP) — The City of Montreal Sunday night drew 151 names of people who will be eligible for $150,000 worth of silver ingots to be awarded after a second draw next Sunday.

The first prize winner will receive $100,000 worth of silver ingots.

The list indicates Mayor Jean Drapeau's voluntary tax scheme has attracted interest from all parts of Canada and even names one "voluntary taxpayer" from Los Angeles, Calif.

It includes the names of 50 residents of Montreal proper, 86 from Quebec outside Montreal; eight from Ontario, four from British Columbia and one each from New Brunswick, Nova Scotia and California.

The names include: Ontario: Harold Jensen, Norwood; Jean Seniuk, Toronto; Miss Edith Brownhill, Hamilton; Fernando Lourenco, Toronto; Miss Anastasia Ann Charkos, Sudbury; Edwin Tait, Cornwall; Mrs. Shirley Mitchell, Toronto; Henri J. Rice, Petawawa.

British Columbia: T. G. Lynch, North Vancouver; Edward Ramsey, Coquitlam, Westminister; Gustav Abend, Prince George; Mrs. E. Molloy, Vancouver.

Nova Scotia: T. M. Larkin, Westphal.

New Brunswick: Rev. E. Chamberlain, Lameque.

California: Florent Perras, Los Angeles.

ON THE PRAIRIES

Douglas Supported

REGINA (CP) — Allan Blakeney, deputy leader of the Saskatchewan New Democratic opposition, said Monday he will not stand as a candidate for the party's federal leadership as long as there is a chance T. C. Douglas may continue as leader. Mr. Douglas has said he is reconsidering a decision to retire.

RENTERS MERGE

CALGARY (CP) — A spokesman for a recently-formed renters group said Monday his organization has merged with similar organizations in Winnipeg and Vancouver. He said that with the merger the Canadian Renters and Leaseholders Association hopes to add a standard insurance policy and an inter-city relocation program to its list of services.

SEEKS LEADERSHIP

EDMONTON (CP) — Raymond Peterson, minister of education and labor, said Monday he will be a candidate for the Social Credit leadership at the provincial convention here Dec. 18. Premier E. C. Manning announced his retirement last month.

McGeer Has More Brains Than His Political Foes

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dr. Patrick Lucey McGeer, new leader of British Columbia's Liberal party, has more brains than all his political foes combined.

He keeps them in terrifyingly malodorous jars in his laboratory at the University of British Columbia—greyish things in a formaldehyde solution.

Dr. Pat McGeer, political leader, is also Dr. Pat McGeer, neurochemist, one of the top brain researchers in the country.

Politics and neurochemistry—the study of chemical effects on the brain—are just two aspects of the 41-year-old legislative member for Vancouver-Point Grey. He has a PhD, he used to be an Olympic basketball player and spent the early part of his career doing research in plastics.

And when he's not talking politics, he's talking brains.

"Now that I'm the party leader, my responsibilities lie elsewhere than in the research field," Dr. McGeer said in an interview after winning the leadership in Penticton Saturday.

"I'm really going to miss the excitement of discovery, the matching of wits against nature," he said. "It provides me with great personal satisfaction, a tremendously exciting occupation."

RESEARCH INTERRUPTED
Dr. McGeer said that in recent months he's been searching for new chemical agents affecting brain functions, "but I'll have to leave that work for now."

"There's no more important job than leading a political party with the chance to become the premier of a province, so I have no hesitation in accepting this new post."

Dr. McGeer's father, James, was a British Columbia county court judge and one of his uncles was the late Senator Gerry McGeer, a former member of Parliament and one-time mayor of Vancouver.

Dr. McGeer had a cousin who died of Addison's disease, a brain disorder, and this is what steered him into medicine and neurological research.

Born and raised in Vancouver, the new Liberal leader graduated from the University of British Columbia in 1948 with first-class honors in chemistry.

During his years at UBC, Dr. McGeer played basketball and was good enough to make the team that represented Canada at the 1948 Olympics.

After graduating, he won a scholarship to further his education at Princeton University's graduate school. There he obtained his PhD at the age of 23.

MARRIED CHEMIST

After Princeton he went to work for the Dupont Co. in Wilmington, Del., as a research scientist for three years. He met and married his wife Edith, herself an outstanding chemist who received her PhD at 22.

"If it hadn't been for scholarships I probably wouldn't have been that highly motivated," said Dr. McGeer. "Now that I'm leaving research I think it's safe to say that my wife is a much better scientist than I am—so the better half of the team is still in the field."

Dr. McGeer left Wilmington in 1954 and enrolled at UBC's medical school. After graduating in 1958 he interned in order to qualify for medical practice.

Floods Rampage Over Pakistan

DACCA (Reuters) — Floods engulfing east Pakistan's Dinajpur and Rangpur districts left at least 57 persons dead and hundreds of cattle drowned, said reports reaching here today.

Floodwaters pouring from north-west Bengal in India, where at least 464 persons are known to have died after four days of torrential rain, caused rivers to burst their banks and affected 3,200,000 persons in east Pakistan.

Two U.S. Candidates Say Aim Is For Peace

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Democrat Hubert H. Humphrey, pledging "I shall be a peace president" if elected Nov. 5, proposed today annual working summit conferences between the United States and Soviet Union.

Republican Richard M. Nixon, meanwhile, says as president he would seek a Vietnam settlement of both honor and generosity—but a settlement that would offer no comfort to Communist hawks and would discourage future wars.

And third-party candidate George C. Wallace, spelling out his foreign affairs goals, says: "I would rather negotiate."

The three presidential candidates made their foreign policy comments in Washington. Nixon and Humphrey addressed a United Press International editors meeting Monday and Wallace delivered a major foreign policy speech at the National Press Club.

Annual U.S.-Soviet summit conferences, Humphrey said in remarks prepared for the UPI editors meeting today, could become "forums for a new dialogue, free of the publicity, free of the high expectations that surround irregular summit meetings."

HAS NO ILLUSIONS
The vice-president said he has no illusions about the difficulty of dealing with the Soviet Union.

"We may fail," he said, "but we must not fail to try."

Humphrey said he also would urge the Soviets to call on North Vietnam "to start negotiating seriously," and he renewed his pledge to seek a Middle East peace solution.
